1. Define Academic Endeavor per UW Regulation 2-114.

Any student activity undertaken to earn University credit or meet some other University program requirement.

Put a check-mark or “X” inside the space next to each example that constitutes an example of academic endeavor.

- ☒ Course assignments (written and/or oral, projects, research, exhibitions of work).
- ☒ Exams (written and/or oral, quizzes)
- ☒ Presentations (on and off campus)
- ☒ Publications

2. The page linked above provides several examples of academic dishonesty, similar to some below. Which of the following are the examples of academic dishonesty per UW Regulation 2-114? Put a check-mark or “X” inside the box next to each example that constitutes an example of academic dishonesty.

☒ Presenting the work (i.e., ideas, data, creations) of another, wholly or in part, as one’s own work without customary and proper acknowledgement of sources and extent of use.

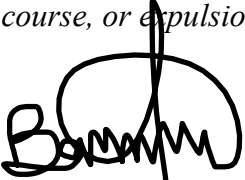

☒ Doing a class assignment for someone else or allowing someone to copy one’s assignment.

☒ Altering or inventing data, research, or citations for an academic endeavor; fabricating, forging or otherwise misrepresenting to an instructor or institution one’s past or current academic or professional activities.

☒ Submitting, wholly or in part, the same academic endeavor to earn credit in two or more courses without explicit approval by all concerned instructors.

Read the statement below and then sign and date to confirm that you understand the statement.

By signing, I confirm that I understand UW's academic dishonesty regulation 2-114 and what constitutes an act of academic dishonesty. I also understand UW's regulation on student conduct 11-1. I understand the course policy on Generative AI use in relation to academic integrity. I understand that any evidence that suggests academic dishonesty or student misconduct be reported to UW's academic affairs office. I understand that this could result in a zero for the assessment, an F for the course, or expulsion from the school.
